National Women's Teachers Day Celebrations

On January 3, 2024, the Women Empowerment Cell at SCIM Government College celebrated National Women's Teachers Day to honor the birth anniversary of Savitribai Phule, a pioneering figure in women's education. The event featured a keynote speech by A. Maruthi Devi Chowdary, a prominent advocate for women's rights. The program highlighted the achievements and contributions of female educators, with various sessions that emphasized empowerment, leadership, and educational advancement. Faculty members and students gathered to commemorate the day, with discussions centered on promoting gender equality in education. The celebration reinforced the importance of women's role in shaping the future through education and empowerment.
